GERMANS UNBROKEN.

The speech of Dr. Michaelis to the Reichstag, which was expected to indicate the attitude of the imperial government toward peace as well as internal reform, told no new story. Censored and fragmentary reports of the address go to show that it was kaiserism and Hindenburgism that spoke through Michaelis. The government is ready for an honorable peace. The government has nothing to regret in connection with the means it has adopted of waging war. The submarine campaign is both justified and successful. No date can be set for the victory that is to come, but triumph is none the less sure for all that.

The Michaelis speech was echoed by Hindenburg's guns. Or possibly it was the other way round. At any rate, German activity on a large scale developed not only in the west, but in the east. Little or much may have been accomplished. As far as the French line is concerned, it is reasonably certain to be little. But a demonstration has been given. German arms have been shown to be still capable of an offensive or several offensives. German courage can screw itself up. There is no need to be gloomy, no need to lose trust in kaiserism plus divinity. The words of the chancellor and the guns of the field marshal are seen to be very much in union.

For the foes of Germany an interesting study is presented. It is for them to decide whether German junkerism is really as confident as it professes to be. If the imperial government is sincere in its faith in victory, then the allies might profitably try to figure out on what that faith is based. Obviously, there is a great deal of power yet in the German armies. The proof of it in Gallia ought to go on a long way toward counterbalancing the majority vote of the Reichstag in favor of peace. It is still to be doubted whether the voice of the people in Germany will raise itself so loudly as to command a hearing. When it does achieve that, then it will be time to acknowledge the fact.

Of course, even if the autocracy has determined upon peace—peace at the best terms obtainable—it would fight desperately against any appearance of having been forced into that situation. It would use cloudy words and talk in terms of confidence, just as it is doing today. As to the Reichstag, its attitude on the voting of a war credit will show whether its spinal column is made of iron or rope.

COAL.
 It is becoming evident that the coal situation is not going to mend itself. There would be another job for Hoover and there is never a doubt that he would prove equal to the occasion. It is an indisputable fact that coal has doubled in price in one year, and there was no reason, no excuse, except that the thing could be done, and certain people believed that they were entitled to "all that they could get." The holdup man has that same theory. But after all, the holdup man would probably object if he were to be compared with the fellows who have been plundering the coal consumer. The man with the bun might say that he did not rob everybody and did not bear most heavily upon those who have little or nothing, that he was not taking the last pennies from widows and orphans. And he might claim that he was taking a chance of getting his head shot off. While the coal robbers were not even taking the chance of going to prison.

Unless some one is put on the job, and it will take a real man for that job, there will be no improvement in the coal situation, despite the fact that a secretary or two have been talking to the big coal barons.

GERMANY AND THE EAST ST. LOUIS RACE RIOTS.

To the Editor of The Globe:

Sir: From innumerable experiences of plots, conspiracies and acts of violence contrived and committed in the United States by the secret agents of the German autocracy, it seems reasonable to believe that the race riots in East St. Louis were also contrived and fomented by German agents. It is well known that secret agents of the Kaiser's government have been carrying on a treacherous propaganda among the Southern Negroes for many months; and numerous arrests of these Prussian propagandists have been made in every Southern state and reported in the southern newspapers.

The object of this web of conspiracy, culminating in the outbreak in East St. Louis, would obviously be to bring about a race war in the United States, and thus to prevent the American army from going to Europe.

These premises being, I think, logical and undeniable, it would be desirable that an official inquiry into the causes of the East St. Louis race riots should investigate the following questions:

1. Whether the Negroes in East St. Louis were in the first place instigated to make a demonstration and supplied with arms to make that demonstration by agents of the Kaiser's government.

2. Whether the white mobs were instigated to attack the Negroes and led to assault by agents of the German government.

3. Whether agents of the German government themselves shot Negroes and burned their dwellings; or possibly paid other persons to commit these crimes. It is quite probable that the majority of the outrages and the most barbarous, cruel and cowardly ones were perpetrated not by Americans at all, but by agents of the Prussian autocracy and, perhaps, by ruffians and German sympathizers whom they had hired for the occasion. I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,

COLORED CITIZEN'S CLUB PLAN ENTERTAINMENT FOR COMPANY G.

Patriotism was at its highest pitch on Thursday night, when the Colored Business Men's Club by unanimous vote appointed a committee to arrange for the entertainment of Company G before they leave the city going to the front in the defense of the "Stars and Stripes," or "Old Glory." Speeches giving a short history of the work of Company G, the only Negro militia in the South that has been kept in tact all of these years, were made by some of Nashville's oldest and most respected citizens. The men were praised for their bravery, the Negro soldier as a whole being paid a high compliment. This was one of the items of interest that came before the Colored Citizen's Club. The meeting was called to order by the president, Rev. Preston Taylor, who in stating the object of the meeting, took occasion to tell of its worth and work. Notices had been sent out by the secretary, Mr. Ira T. Bryant, and invitations were extended to the visiting Sir Knights and members of the Court of Calanthe. These invitations were accepted by about one hundred of the visitors. These in connection with the members augmented the attendance greatly. The meeting proper was held on the beautiful lawn at the summer home of Rev. and Mrs. Preston Taylor at Greenwood Park. Bishop I. B. Scott, Vice President, presiding. Speeches were made by Mr. J. C. Napier, president of the National Negro Business League; Dr. J. P. Crawford, Grand Chancellor of the K. of P.; Dr. C. V. Roman, eye, ear, and nose specialist, and Mrs. Cora E. Burke, of Knoxville, Tenn., the Grand Worthy Counselor of the Courts of Calanthe of Tennessee. The evening was spent in transacting of much important business and working to the interest of the citizens throughout the state, as well as the city. A committee of fifteen was appointed to work up a large delegation to go to the National Negro Business League to be held in Chattanooga. Mr. T. Clay Moore advocated a Business League Special train to be made up in Nashville, saying that an invitation ought to be extended to West Tennessee to join this special train. Mr. W. D. Hawkins was enthusiastic over the prospects of the Colored Business Men's League entertaining Company G. Dr. R. H. Boyd advocated a demonstration and reception to the "Brave Boys" under command of its own officers from C to C. The League went on record by motion as heartily in favor of putting their support behind the National Negro Business League, and agreed that Nashville send the largest delegation in its history. A motion was passed extending to Rev. and Mrs.

Taylor congratulations and thanks for their hospitality and the magnificent way in which they entertained. Both committees which were appointed, were called to meet today at one o'clock at the One Cent Savings Bank.

Entertainment Committee for Company G: Rev. Preston Taylor, R. H. Boyd, Patton, W. H. McGavock, J. B. Boyd, W. D. Hawkins.

Committee on arranging for delegates to Business League: L. C. Moore, Memphis, R. H. Boyd, C. N. Langston, Ira T. Bryant, Rev. Stevens of Jackson, W. D. Hawkins, R. L. Mayfield, C. V. Roman, G. H. Bandy, H. A. Boyd, T. B. Hardman, J. B. Batte, T. Clay Moore, W. J. Hale.

GRAND LODGE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias, N. A. S. A., E. A. A. and A. Jurisdiction of Tennessee has just closed a most harmonious session. Future K. of P. Grand Lodges is decided will meet in Nashville in the newly acquired Pythian Temple, corner Fourth Avenue and Court St. All the officials made most encouraging reports, especially the Endowment Secretary. The finances of the order are a healthy condition. Brig. General Preston Taylor's report as to the Uniform Rank showed that his department has shown a wonderful improvement during the past year. Hon. J. C. Napier, Grand Attorney, reported the legal department to have encountered no breakers and that all was calm and serene. The Master of Exchequer in his report showed his department was right up to the vanguard. The Grand Chancellors address which we print elsewhere is a gem. It was agreed that each Pythian be assessed 50 cents per year for the temple. This assessment is to be paid semi-annually. The committees appointed by the Grand Chancellor (see committee in another column) were painstaking and went at their duties with vim and determination. Their reports showed that they left nothing undone that would tend towards the perpetuity of the order. Taken all in all, this Grand Lodge was the greatest from a constructive standpoint that has ever assembled in Tennessee.

The following are the Pythian Temple Commission: Wayman Wilkerson, President, Dr. S. S. Caruthers, Secretary, B. M. Roddy, A. N. Johnson, T. Clay Moore, A. S. Pyles, John Singleton, J. T. Bridgewater, Taylor Nightengale, T. A. Williams, J. M. Easterling, J. W. Love, Dr. C. A. Kelly, J. C. Napier, J. P. Crawford.

The following are the Grand officers for the ensuing year:

Grand Chancellor, Dr. J. P. Crawford, Nashville.

Grand Vice Chancellor, A. N. Stevens, Jackson.

Grand Prelate, W. E. Tate, Knoxville.

Grand M. of Work, A. F. Shockey, Jasper.

Grand M. of Ex., J. H. Brown, Memphis.

Grand K. or R. and S., Dr. C. O. Hunter, Columbia.

Grand M. of Arms, J. E. Duncan, Dyersburg.

Grand Medical Director, Dr. W. A. Thompson, Chattanooga.

Grand Lecturer, N. N. Reynolds, Pulaski.

Grand Marshal, A. L. Wittie, Millington.

Grand I. Guard, M. V. Cole, Nashville.

Grand O. Guard, John P. Hale, Dyersburg.

Grand Trustee, A. S. Pyles, Milan.

Supreme Representative, R. C. Shannon, Memphis, R. W. Allen, Chattanooga.

The newly elected officers were installed by Col. Roscoe Conkling Simmons in his characteristic way.

Sir Knight A. W. Pite deserves a monument of praise for the able way he arranged the affairs of the Grand Lodge.

NOTES OF THE GRAND LODGE.

A. S. Banks, the old war horse, of Chattanooga was very much in evidence.

Dr. E. W. Irving, the erudite medical man of Memphis mingled freely with the delegates.

A. S. Pyles of Milan, the successful business man of Milan was here.

Josh Lane, dear old Josh of Jackson took a vacation from the mail service long enough to visit the Grand Lodge.

Bald headed R. W. Allen of Chattanooga was here. He is universally popular with the boys in the trenches.

Luther Cummings of South Pittsburg brought along a strong and healthy cob pipe.

Fred Shockey of Jasper sure ain't stuck on a dry town.

J. M. Easterling of Chattanooga, very often made the remark attributed to the governor of North Carolina.

Tom A. Williams of Franklin was seen very often looking for a lunch counter.

Rufus Martin handled the cold drying proposition with eminent satisfaction.

B. M. Roddy, the swell banker from Memphis was very popular with the crowd.

The big policeman, John Singleton of Knoxville was here with a vengeance. John is all right.

Dr. W. A. Thompson of Chattanooga was looking as sweet as a basket of Elbertas.

U. S. Richardson is a very able parliamentarian, you'll have to hand it to him.

Mitch Burge of Knoxville was here in all of his presten splendor.

Robt. B. Buckner of Chattanooga was here looking good.

And brother Johnson of Chattanooga sure can "spite" some.

It was a glorious Grand Lodge.

The accommodations at the "Y" were superb.

CARD OF THANKS.
